student assistant

Proofreading of English scientific articles

Betreuer: Sören Wenzel
Beginn: ASAP
Voraussetzungen: native English speaker

If you are a native English speaker and looking for a job as a student assistant then this might just be the job for you!

We are looking for assistance in writing scientific articles for journals and conferences in English. The main task will be to proofread and correct articles with regard to the use of proper technical terms and grammatical correctness.

It would be helpful if you were a student of mechanical engineering or mechatronics in order to better understand the content of the articles. As all articles will contain results of current research, you will have the chance to gain insight in up-to-date research in machine acoustics and system reliability.
